

Malady & Wooten

Congratulates Our Founder

JOHN MALADY

Named one of City & State PA's
Who's Who in Government Relations!

www.malady-wooten.com

mater – some $160 million annually. Her efforts sustain a robust network of hospitals and research centers, 1,550 physicians and scientists and a regional economic impact estimated at $9 billion each year.

MICHAEL LONG

PARTNER

Long Nyquist & Associates

From chief of staff in the state Senate to government relations for Fortune 500 companies, Mike Long has earned a reputation as a heavyweight lobbyist and a secret weapon for GOP candidates. Since 2007, Long has served as a founding partner at Long Nyquist & Associates, the Harrisburg firm that, through a series of mergers and acquisitions, has grown into the commonwealth's largest stand-alone lobbying outfit. Long recently announced the acquisition of Pugliese Associates, further expanding his client base and influence.

MICHAEL MAGUIRE

LEGISLATIVE DIRECTOR

AFSCME Council 13

Michael Maguire grew up in a Philadelphia labor household and now serves as legislative director for AFSCME Council 13, the Harrisburg union where he has worked on policy since 2011. He recently celebrated the 2023 passage of state legislation concerning workplace safety standards and workers' benefits. A 24-year AFSCME member, Maguire currently serves as board chair of the Keystone Research Center and is active with the Pennsylvania Association for Government Relations.

AMAL MAHROUKI

DIRECTOR OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

AIA Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania's architects have a champion in Amal Mahrouki, who heads legislative affairs for the Pennsylvania state chapter of the American Institute of Architects. On behalf of its nearly 3,000 architects and design professionals, Mahrouki recently worked with lawmakers to update legislation around the scope of practice and professional licensure. She also recently launched Demystified Advocacy, a coaching and consulting company. Mahrouki serves on the American Society of Association Executives' Government Relations and Advocacy Professionals Advisory Council and the Pennsylvania Association for Government Relations board.

BRITTANY MAKO

PRESIDENT

Pennsylvania Association for Government Relations

Young and ambitious, Brittany Mako is one of the best-known lobbyists of her generation. She heads the Pennsylvania Association for Government Relations and recently joined the board of the Lehigh Valley Chamber's Young Professionals Council. Mako's day job is with Capital Blue Cross, where she is the senior government affairs representative. A longtime leader with Pennsylvania Young Republicans, the Lehigh Valley native has worked with the Pennsylvania House Republican Campaign Committee and is married to state Rep. Zach Mako.

John Malady

JOHN MALADY

FOUNDER AND PARTNER

Malady & Wooten

Over more than 40 years, John Malady has established himself as one of the commonwealth's preeminent lobbyists. He has helmed Malady Government Affairs since 1997, representing clients ranging from major financial outfits to local small businesses to the Pittsburgh

Symphony Orchestra. The Pittsburgh native and longtime Harrisburg denizen holds an MBA from Penn State and spent nearly two decades at Wojdak Government Relations. Malady began his career working for the Pennsylvania Senate and the state lieutenant governor's office.

MICHAEL MCGEE

CEO

Pennsylvania Association of Realtors

The commonwealth's real estate professionals are represented by Michael McGee, a career association leader who joined the Pennsylvania Association of Long recently announced the acquisition of Pugliese Associates.